I like to assign each guided reading group a book shopping day (or days), and students get new books as soon as they arrive at school on that specified day or days. That said, kindergarten and early first grade students tend to go through books quickly—and if your centers last 15 minutes, that can be a long time for them to read independently!

Here are some general tips to keep your first grade literacy stations running smoothly. Introduce one literacy station at a time. Let the children practice it and don't add a new station until the last one is running smoothly. Try to keep some stations that can stay the same from week to week. It is hard to change five or six centers every week.
