The Culture War - YouTube
The culture war as a rhetorical phenomenon has the potential to mobilize, convert, divide, and provoke, and the stark dichotomy of culture war rhetoric is contributing factor to the negative opinions people have of their political opponents. 13 To say that people are not actually polarized even though they feel that way is like saying people are not actually sad even though they feel that way. Feelings, attitudes, and impressions are politically significant realities.

The Struggle Is Real: Understanding the American “Culture War”
None of these scholars deny that the words 'culture wars' refers to something that has been going on in America since the late 60s. This debate is not about conjecture, that is, whether a culture war exists, but rather about the definition of the words `culture war', and its magnitude. The consensus seems to be that there are about 15 percent extremists on the Left and Right, and about 70 percent moderates in the middle.
